Sir

I have put all the men to work cleaning up the Bricks from Boilers & also their rooms & will so manage to keep them employed, until we start up. As the Ladies are to come in on the 20th & there is no quots to get up. I would advise Mr. Stet to notify them not to come in until the 27th the chances are they could not work any how as the heat in there is intense & would be still greater if the Steam was on. The men are ^{945¹/₂} at work too on the scaffolding around the Smoke Stack & I shall leave nothing undone to be ready when the Machinery is - if it does not get more than 20 degrees hotter than it is

Truly yours

Dear Sir

I have put all the men to work clearing up the bricks from Boilers & also their rooms & will so manage to keep them employed until we start up. As the Ladies are to come in on the 20th & there is no quota to get up. I would advise Mr. Steel to notify them not to come in until the 27th. The chances are they could not work any how as the heat in there is intense & would be still greater if the steam was on. The men are at work too on the scaffolding around the smoke stack & I shall leave nothing undone to be ready when the machinery is – if it does not get more than 20 degree hotter than it is.

Truly yours,
E.R. Helmbold
